

If you're worried about what will happen to your beloved pets after you pass away, you might be interested to know that your Will can safeguard their future - with the RSPCA's Home for Life service.

The RSPCA's Home for Life service means you can rest assured that after you pass on the RSPCA will be there for your beloved pets. All it takes to set up the service is a simple clause in your Will instructing that care of your pets is handed over to the RSPCA after your death.

To find out more information about this service please click here or call 0300 123 0239.